Success Story

Amanda McAuley, a current resident of the B7 Program, has demonstrated remarkable resilience and determination in her journey toward stability. After facing a difficult situation that led to her arrest and the loss of her previous permanent housing, Amanda was temporarily placed in a motel following her release.

Through a referral from Housing for Health, she was connected to Whittier First Day and enrolled in the B7 Program. Since joining, Amanda has been highly motivated to regain permanent housing. Her commitment has already led to meaningful steps forward—not only was she connected to resources that helped secure a voucher to neuter her beloved service animal, Little Foot, who assists her in managing fatigue and seizures, but she has also identified a new permanent housing opportunity. Amanda is now preparing to transition into her new home in the coming days.

Her story is a testament to the strength of client-centered support and the power of persistence.
